WOMEN DECIDE ON Y. W. C. A.; MISS HOBBS' PLAN TO BE FOLLOWED

Calls for Rented Building for Girls' Recreational Activities and Rented or Purchased Residence Building—Desire is to Raise Necessary Fund by May 15.

A big step forward in the Y. W. C. A. matter was taken Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. and those present, representing a large number of the women of Kingston, voted that there shall be a center for girls and that it shall be a Y. W. C. A.

Miss Hobbs of the financial department of the state board of Young Women's Christian Associations was present, with members of the finance and headquarters sub-committees of the organization committee, and there were also present a special representative from the girls and one from the publicity sub-committee.

Miss Hobbs outlined a plan of starting the Y. W. C. A. in Kingston, where it is an entirely new project, by renting a building in a suitable location for the activities building in order to prove to the community that a Y. W. C. A. is needed and can be successfully put over. In addition her plan called for the rental or purchase of a building in the residential section for an Association residence.

Miss Hobbs had further mapped out a very tentative budget along the above-mentioned lines, but it could be only tentative until she has been in town long enough to gather more definite information. However, just those tentative plans gave to the headquarters sub-committee something concrete to work upon and they, with Miss Hobbs, will immediately get busy. The plans outlined by Miss Hobbs were so well thought of that it was unanimously voted to follow such plans for the local Y. W. C. A.

As soon as Miss Hobbs can get the necessary data she will give out a definite budget for the raising of which there will be a campaign a little later. It is hoped that this campaign may be completed by May 15th at the very latest so that actual work on the new Y. W. C. A. may be begun this spring. As later sub-committee meetings develop working plans they will be fully published in The Freeman.

Brokers are now quoting the shares at from $100 to $110. Some 500 shares were sold around par.

BETZ'S SUIT IS SETTLED

Judge Rosch's Advice Heeded and Jurors Will Not Have To Try To Understand Strange Words—Boarding House Man Sues Brooklyn Eagle.

Settlement was made Wednesday afternoon in the action which was brought in supreme court by Gerard W. Betz against the Shurtler Theatre Company, Inc., of Ellenville, an action brought by Mr. Betz to collect for services rendered as architect when the theater company erected a theater building in Ellenville. On account of the complex nature of the case, which involved a vast amount of testimony in regard to architect's work and involving numerous architect's terms which it was almost impossible for the jurors to understand and interpret intelligently, the court asked that some effort be made between the two parties to arrive at a satisfactory settlement. This advice was followed and a settlement was finally effected Wednesday afternoon.

Judge Joseph M. Fowler appeared for plaintiff with Thomas F. Coughlin of counsel and John R. De Vany with Le Roy Lounsbury appeared for defendant. An action for breach of contract brought by Rupert Martin against the Brooklyn Daily Eagle to recover for damages was taken up for trial. Mr. Martin who conducted a boarding house at Eddyville, placed an advertisement in the Eagle. He in his complaint alleges that the Eagle did not follow his instructions and in various issues of the paper printed his name as R. Nathan, that the advertisement was published under the caption "Shawangunk mountain and Sullivan county" resorts and that one of the advertisements it appeared under the Pennsylvania classification with the address as Eddyville, Pa. Walter N. Gill appears for plaintiff and Richard M. Cahoon is attorney of record for the defendant. In some of the papers which were introduced in evidence the advertisement appears twice, once with R. Martin as the signature and with another place with the name R. Nathan.

Mr. Martin claims that people who came to his place the previous year were misled by the advertisement and he lost business through the error of the press. WATER POWER BILL INTRODUCED

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, March 22.—Governor Smith's bill providing for state development and control of the water-power, was introduced in the legislature today. While the measure is certain to pass the Democratic senate, there is every indication that it will strike a snag in the Republican assembly.

The measure provides for state development on the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers; would permit the state to own and operate transmission lines, and repeals the water-power act of 1920, passed at the suggestion of former Governor Miller.

Governor Smith claims that by proper development 500,000 horsepower could be generated from the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers. He believes that eventually this electrical energy could be transmitted by the state to consumers in all parts of the state.

The bill was introduced by Senator Rabenold and Assemblyman Hackenbush, both of New York.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR TEACHERS

Subject of Talk At High School—Normal School Now Has Advantages of College If Desired.

Commissioner of Elementary Education Wiley was the speaker at the high school Wednesday morning, his talk dealing with the profession of teaching.

There is one thing that a good democracy needs, he said, and that is intellectual citizens, and in this way education becomes an essential part of the democracy. There are two points of view, two objectives, which may be seen; one is the immediate objective, the other is the ultimate. A child's questions demonstrate the immediate, for the child always wants to know what is coming next. Then, there is the question of the matured mind, what is coming sometime hence. Civilization, as well as a man's ability, can be measured by the distance into the future in which the acts and thoughts extend. Acts which seem only what they are in themselves, are sometimes the causes of great works years afterward, whether these results are good or bad. It is only the trained mind that can grasp the significance of such acts at the time of the occurrence, or rather before they occur. Education in this way really becomes the life of the democracy for it determines what the democracy will be in later years. The educational system today, with all its excellent results, is criticized as being too expensive. This is to be expected from selfish people who have no concern but gain for themselves. The truth is that the cost of education in public schools on the whole is about one hundred dollars per student. This is a meager amount, compared to the benefits the country will get from it.

The American education system is one of the greatest things in existence, for it teaches not materialistic gain, but service. The profession of teaching is something that is of interest, or should be of interest, to everyone who believes in and wishes to serve his country. No other profession offers such an opportunity for service to one's fellow men, and to his country as does teaching. Education of today is on a higher plane, the schooling has been systematized so that it is on a par with the best educational institutions in the country. Whereas in former years the student of a normal school was a normal student without loss of time, today the normal school student is really one who gains time. It is now possible to get two years in a normal school and then teach for two years, with chances for renewal of the permit for three years. At the end of the two years in normal school, or after the student has taught a year or so, he can then go to the state college for teachers, and with two years' more work get the A. B. degree. In this way, no time is lost, and the student has had all the advantages of both normal and college.

Teaching is attractive, for beside the opportunity for service, there is the opportunity for greater development. The teacher works long and hard while school is in. The few minutes after the work of the day is done, is for the teacher to use as he pleases. Saturdays and holidays are his to turn to financial or educational use. The summer vacation offers the opportunity to take advantage of higher education at the universities. Many positions with good pay are open for teachers in the summer vacations. The profession is one where the individual can grow as much as he desires. There is no limit to his opportunities for self-development.

With the statement that some years hence those who heard the talk would think back about the truth, proven by time, that the job that really counts is one where service is rendered, the speaker closed, reciting the lines of "Opportunity," the poem of the winning of the battle by the man who would with the sword that had been thrown away by the man who did not care.

DEADLOCK BETWEEN BOARD AND ELECTRIC COMPANY OVER RATES

Public Works Board Awaiting Written Proposition Before Renewing Street Lighting Contract—Verbal Prices Considered Excessive—Playgrounds To Open—To Be Boys' Ball League—Playground at School 6 Favored.

As the Kingston Gas & Electric Company had not submitted its new street lighting proposition in writing, the board of public works at the regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening were unable to take any action toward entering into a new contract with the electric company. The present street lighting contract, which has been in force ten years, expired March 1.

The board and the electric company are deadlocked over the new rates, which may be one of the reasons why the electric company has not filed its proposition as yet. At several conferences held this year with the electric company, officials quoted prices which the board considers excessive.

No action will be taken by the board until it receives the written proposition from the electric company.

City's Playgrounds.
Hasbrouck Park and Forsyth Park will open, as usual, on Decoration Day, but there will be no supervised play at these parks until July. The same plans as last season will undoubtedly be carried out this season in regard to the city's playgrounds.

Commissioner Frank D. Matthews stated that he was in favor of a playground being located this season in the Second ward and recommended that the board ask the education board to allow the use of the grounds at School No. 6 for this purpose during the vacation period.

The board instructed Secretary Winchell to write the education board informing that board that the public works board favored the use of the school grounds and that it would have a man stationed on the grounds if permission was granted.

The board received a communication from former Mayor Morris Block toward the Playground and Recreation Association, and that Mr. Block had written he would increase his contribution $25 if the board of public works located a playground on the west side of Broadway downtown. It was a congested district and since the opening of the Rondout Creek bridge the streets in that vicinity were not safe for the children to play in owing to the greatly increased auto traffic. The communication was referred to the park committee.

K. of C. Boys' League.
N. D. J. Murphy, president of the recently organized Columbian School Baseball League, wrote that the local Knights of Columbus boys' welfare work committee had organized this boys' league and desired the use of the ball grounds at Forsyth and Hasbrouck Parks on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons commencing in April and continuing through the baseball season.

The request was granted subject to revocation by the board if it interfered with any playground work that the board should adopt.

Morris Miller wrote asking permission to install a 1,000 gasoline tank under the walk in front of his place at No. 130 Hasbrouck avenue and also install a pump at the curb. The request was referred to the street committee and superintendent.

Edgar B. Schoonmaker of 74 Garden street wrote he was contemplating erecting a building on Clinton avenue, near Stephan street, and desired permission to install a gasoline pump. The matter was referred to the street committee and superintendent.

F. N. Anderson, who has purchased the Stryker & Youmans garage on Furnace street asked permission to install a pump in driveway alongside garage. It was referred to the street committee and superintendent.

Want Sanitary Sewer.
A petition was read from property owners on Hasbrouck avenue asking the board to construct a sanitary sewer under the sidewalk on the north side of Hasbrouck avenue starting at Hasbrouck Place and running south about 200 feet. The petition was referred to the street committee and superintendent.

Must Eliminate Driveway.
It was called to the board's attention that the A. R. Newcombe Company had placed a driveway leading into the service station at Franklin street and Broadway at the corner. The same action had been taken at the service station at Delaware avenue and Broadway. The board instructed its secretary to notify the company to eliminate these corner driveways within 30 days as it was considered dangerous to have driveways so placed.

Several routine matters were discussed and the board then adjourned.

TWO POUGHKEEPSIE BOYS STRANDED IN KINGSTON

Had Taken Ride In Auto and Said Driver Refused To Let Them Out.
Shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon two young lads from Poughkeepsie wandered into police headquarters at the city hall telling a tale of having accepted a ride in an automobile in Poughkeepsie and being brought to Kingston as the driver of the car refused to let them get out until they had gotten here. They had no money and wanted to get home. Chief of Police J. Allan Wood got in touch on the telephone with the father of one of the boys and he asked that the lads be placed on the train leaving here shortly after 7 o'clock and be sent home. This was done. The boys were Thomas Lowery, 23 Academy street and Thomas Rice, 23 North Bridge street. They informed the police that they had been on the way to school that morning when they got into the auto for a ride. They did not know the driver of the car. At first the boys were inclined to tell a wild tale of being abducted.

AM'N LEGIONS 10 COMMANDMENTS

Commander Albert S. Callan of the American Legion in New York state, which is at present conducting a successful drive through the month of March for a membership of "100,000 or bust," today called attention to the ten commandments of the American legion as contained in the preamble of the organization constitution.
"These ten commandments of Americanism," said Major Callan, "should appeal to every ex-service man to join the legion so as to continue as an important atom in a great army for good, and they should inspire respect for the legion in the heart of every non-member."
These are the commandments: (1) To uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; (2) to maintain law and order; (3) to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; (4) to preserve the memories and incidents of our associations in the great war; (5) to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; (6) to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; (7) to make right the master of might; (8) to promote peace and good will upon earth; (9) to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; (10) to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.
Since the drive started, over 15,000 membership cards have been received at state headquarters and every indication points to New York continuing a big lead over all other state departments in paid-up membership.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and diseases when their blood is impure. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. Without iron your food merely passes through you without doing you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. There is one universal remedy because it contains iron like the iron in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood.

FUXATED IRON
Is an eminent physician's best blood prescription, standardized. It is recommended for all anemic and run-down conditions. It has helped thousands of others. It should help you. Ask for it at any Medicine drug store.

A FIFTY-MILE DRY ZONE.

The town of Mexicali, just across the Mexican border from California, has attained to fame beyond its intrinsic importance. Not only do visiting couples find hospitable reception there, but college boys and young girls motor there after supper to dance and enjoy fluid refreshment less easily obtained in southern California. Therefore the Federated Clubwomen of the Imperial Valley in that State, convinced that something must be done, decided to ask Secretary Hughes to "close the Mexican border" at sundown to persons under 21 years of age. How to close a border nearly two thousand miles long every night the "resolving" clubwomen did not figure out, leaving that small matter of arrangements to Mr. Hughes. They merely reasoned that, inasmuch as it would relieve the Americans above the border of the burden of looking after their own children, it should and must be done. And of course it was the business of the Federal government at Washington to come without delay to the aid of the anxious parents concerned.

The embarrassment of Mr. Hughes, if required to establish a night patrol along the Mexican border to stop all automobiles and demand affidavits records of the ages of all passengers, can be imagined. But fortunately he will not have to grapple with such a task. It seems that the President of Mexico has decided to take it off his hands. President Obregon is known to be worried over our State Department's failure to recognize his government and he seems to have concluded that the United States is interested only in the regulation of morals. At any rate, with a view to win favor in this country, he is reported to have decided to establish a "dry zone" fifty miles wide along the whole northern frontier of Mexico, within which vast strip there shall be no liquor, horse racing or other temptations to joy-riding young Americans. His plans have not been announced in detail, but doubtless they include a mighty army, machine guns and barbed wire or some other approximation of a Chinese wall. Secretary Hughes may wonder where the money for all this is to come from, and what sort of taxes will be imposed in order to raise it, but no doubt he congratulates himself that for a time at least those California clubwomen will leave him in peace.

THE OPEN ROAD.

Assemblyman Esmond, of Saratoga county, says that influences in the Democratic senate, emanating from the city of New York, seem to be in complete control when it comes to the question of appropriating money for up-state necessities, no matter how pressing the demand or how beneficial to the people. There has been a very general demand, Mr. Esmond says, for legislation providing for the removal of snow from improved highways during the winter season so that motor vehicle transportation may be uninterrupted.

The Esmond bill, which provides that the state shall meet county appropriations on a fifty-fifty basis for the removal of snow from the main highways of the state, passed the assembly by a large majority vote, but the introducer says that the bill is blocked in the senate by the Democratic members of New York city. "These New York Democrats" says Mr. Esmond, "are pursuing a very short-sighted policy and disregarding the interests of the people of the whole state, the bill having received favorable comment from the press, local officials and organizations in various sections of the state, and also the endorsement of Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald."

In support of his bill Mr. Esmond further says: "Hundreds of millions have been invested by the state in improved roads. Over a billion dollars has been invested by the owners of automobiles and trucks. The interest on the state's investment alone, during the period it is rendered useless by snow conditions, would amount to over a million and a half dollars, annually. This does not take into consideration the loss of interest on the million dollars invested by the public in cars and trucks. If it be said that a part of these are located in cities, still it is a fact that a large number of city cars would be used on the highways for business purposes, if the highways were passable."

From what he says there appears to be merit in the proposal, and the vote by which it passed the Republican assembly would indicate that the members of the lower house thought it a measure worthy of approval.

By ROBERTSON MIFLIN CO.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. I have noticed nursery advertisements of seedling apple trees. Are these raised from seed without grafting, and if so, what kind of apples will give good fruit without grafting?
2. Do fishes have tongues?
3. Do birds swallow hairy caterpillars fuz and all?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. What makes linen so much more expensive than cotton?

Largely because it is more work to prepare the fibres of flax, from which it is made. These must be rotted by soaking in water, separated by beating and combing, then bleached, before they can be spun into thread for weaving. Also, we have to import linen, which adds to the cost. Flax is today mostly grown chiefly in northern Europe, where some peculiar quality of the water not duplicated in America, is specially adapted to the preparation of the flax fibre.

2. I killed a rabbit that has what look like horns on its head, from one-half inch to an inch and a half long, sharp at the end, and seem to cover the head. Otherwise the rabbit looked normal. Can you send me any information on it?

No, except that such abnormal growths are not unknown. Photographs have been filed in some of the natural history institutions of rabbits with horns, but so marked an abnormality is probably rare. We wish the correspondent had sent a photograph. Possibly he might like to give his specimen to one of the museums for study. No explanation is given for such cases.

3. What birds can catch fish?

Beside the general class of swimmers and divers, such as grebes, loons, gulls, terns, etc., and fish hawks, occasionally burrowing owls, crows, snowy owl, herons, bald eagles, Mexican buzzard or caracara as eating all or part fish diet.

WHY

Proper Study of Insect Life is Important.

How far can flies travel, and what determines the direction of their flight? They have occasionally been reported many miles offshore; but in such instances it may have been the winds rather than their wings that were responsible for the long-distance transport. In the course of a series of investigations of insects affecting the health of man and animals, the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has sought definite knowledge regarding the question just raised. Thousands upon thousands of marked flies, notably the common house fly, screw-worm fly and the black blow fly, have been liberated, so as to ascertain the direction and speed of their travel. The maximum distance or speed from the point of release as recorded for the common house fly was 13.1 miles. The dispersion was in all directions from the point of liberation.

Modern progress in medicine has shown again and again how important a knowledge of the habits of insects is for human welfare in general and many public health problems in particular.

It is obviously futile to plan anti-fly or anti-mosquito campaigns with reference to small localities if the insects concerned can readily be disseminated from far beyond the boundaries of the places under control. Efforts to eliminate insect breeding places in order to relieve a particular region may be entirely nullified if neighboring breeding grounds are near enough to keep up the supply of the offending insect.

GUIDE SEARCHERS FOR HONEY

Why Some Flowers Have Far Greater Attractions for Bees Than Others of Like Species.

Do flowers use rays not visible to the human eye to attract insects to them? Certain insects can spot ultra-violet light that cannot be seen by man, and some blossoms, in addition to their ordinary brilliant hues, vary in the kind of short light rays that they emit.

Prof. F. K. Richtmeyer of Cornell university told the Optical Society of America, meeting at the bureau of standards in Washington recently, that these invisible rays may guide pollen-bearing insects to the flowers in their search for honey. Giving signals in rays shorter than the deepest violet that we can see brings the flowers the pollen that is necessary to it in producing seed. Experiments made by Professor Richtmeyer on Colorado flowers show that flowers apparently differ in their reflection of ultra-violet as much as in their visible colors.—Cleveland News-Leader.

How Game Is Being Exterminated.

A Loucheux Indian, trapping east of Macpherson, on the Arctic coast, caught 120 white foxes last winter, besides other game, which he shot or found in his fox traps. The foxes alone netted him $4,200, while a white trapper, C. Norberg, trapping at Hallie island in the Arctic, came out with a catch of white foxes valued at $15,000. Charles Klunkenberg, a Dane, who has lived in the Arctic for 40 years, takes in 1,000 white fox pelts at this trading post yearly, and as white foxes are fashionable, and have increased in value from $10 to $50 within three years, the Arctic fox will soon be as scarce as the sable and sea otter.

Why He Missed the Train.

A certain absent-minded Stanford professor lived in the country and each day he commuted to the university, riding to and from the railroad station on his bicycle.

One afternoon, when his classes were finished, he started home, but being engrossed in deep thought, he forgot to mount his bicycle and walked to the station, a mile away, pushing it along at his side.

Arriving at the station he saw his train just pulling away from the platform.

"How exasperating," he exclaimed. "Had I not been bothered with this confounded bicycle I could have caught that train!"—Judge.

Why They Sympathized.

"The American boy is all right, after all," remarked the man who Sunday tried his skates for the first time after a long illness. He had been a good skater, but now was slow and awkward. A half dozen boys tore down the pond and stopped in front of him. "Just learning, mister?" asked one at the top of his voice. "Been sick," he replied. The boys held a consultation and offered to contribute their combined experience to help him learn to skate again. When the boys found out that his illness was caused by injuries suffered in France, in the World war, they held up instruction until they heard the story.—Detroit Free Press.

Flies Ninety Miles Without Pilot.

The pilotless airplane, with which the army air service has been experimenting for some months, recently made a number of successful flights of more than 50 miles. The automatic control, consisting of a gyroscope and an arrangement of bellows similar to those used in piano players, is said to be more accurate and dependable than a human pilot. The tests proved it was possible to drop bombs from this plane, on targets on or off the ground, with great accuracy.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Nature's Laws Supreme.

If the gatherer gathers too much, Nature takes out of the man what she puts into his chest; swells the estate, but kills the owner. Nature hates monopolies and exceptions.—Emerson.

Plan NOW against next winter's cold

WITH the recent improvement in suitable devices, the use of oil for central heating plants in homes has become a proved success.

By their means thousands of householders this winter have escaped all the worries and annoyances of the shortage or poor quality of coal—some of them are doubtless your neighbors.

Their homes have been warm, their families comfortable, and furnace troubles unknown, all at a reasonable cost.

These oil-heating devices can be adapted to any existing heating system as readily as they can be installed in new houses. Socony Furnace Oil is prepared especially to meet their requirements.

May we suggest that you look into this subject now, rather than risk a last-minute decision next fall?

BILLIE BROWNIE'S TALK

Billie Brownie was giving one of his talks. You know he goes about a great deal to visit Mother Nature's children and he comes back and tells what he has seen.

"I saw some heavers today," said Billie Brownie, "and they had finished building a dam which was twelve feet high and over a quarter of a mile in length."

"Mr. Beaver had a house which was very, very big, particularly large in fact, though all of these heavers had big homes. You see they wanted to be safe against the floods that come when the spring arrives. For with the spring everything would flow out and there would be lots of water."

"They had had a fine winter and had had plenty to eat, for they had been to their marketing in plenty of time so as not to be left at any time with an empty larder."

"The dam they had made was very fine and it showed how wise and intelligent and clever the members of the beaver family were, for thick logs were carefully held between great rocks where there would be the greatest pressure upon them and where they needed to have it particularly secure and safe."

"Mr. Beaver who explained the workings of it to me said that they had all worked over it, though the Beaver Graduates had been the ones who had planned it out.

"He told me that the Beaver Graduates were the older ones who had built dams before and who had passed all the examinations needed in order to be Beaver Graduates."

"Then I paid a visit upon Mr. and Mrs. Phoebe Bird. They told me that the little eggs were soon to be hatched into dear little spring birds."

"The Phoebe Bird as you doubtless know wears a grayish coat and a whitish vest."

"They like to eat insects, flying insects, and so they belong to what is known as the Flycatcher Family."

"They do their marketing by sitting upon a perch where they can easily catch the insects which fly by them, though sometimes they cannot reach the insects as they fly past and then they go out after them."

"You can tell the Phoebe from the Wood Pewee even though the Wood Pewee is a flycatcher, too, and even though they look something alike."

"For the Phoebe balances itself by moving its tail up and down and you will notice this next time you see a Phoebe on a low branch waiting for the marketing to go by."

"There are Black Phoebe families, very handsome indeed, but our Mr. and Mrs. Phoebe are the ones we love best as we know them best and we're pretty sure that spring is really here when they come, for they do not like storms."

"They cannot do their marketing then, and creatures must do their marketing in order to live."

"You know how the Phoebe repeats his name over and over. This is his only song."

"The Birds everywhere tell me how much more they are cared for than ever they were before. They say that those who remain for the winter are fed and other delicacies by kind boys and girls and ladies and gentlemen."

"They tell me, too, that people will not wear birds' feathers in their hats because they know it is cruel and they would rather give up that much style than be cruel. Ostrich feathers of course are all right."

"Then I met Mr. Frigate Bird. What a fellow he is for diving down in the air and catching a fish from another bird. Oh yes, he is not against letting anyone else do his marketing for him. In fact he doesn't fish himself—he doesn't have to, he says."

"He has a splendid hooked beak for fishing, but it's easier to snatch his food from another bird who has been fishing."

"His nest is situated on some very high rocks and when he starts out in the mornings he starts falling down off the rocks, flapping his wings in order to get into flying shape. He is very graceful and though he takes fish from other birds he isn't rough with them."

"He never likes captivity for his strength is all in his wings and walking around a cage wouldn't do at all for him, no indeed."

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

Now is the time when the grapefruit, oranges and lemons are at their best to prepare the candied fruit.

Candied Grapefruit.—Remove the rind from grapefruit leaving one-quarter inch of the pulp. Cut in long narrow strips, cover with cold salted water and bring to the boiling point. Drain and repeat four times, the last time boiling until tender. Now drain and weigh. To each pound of the pulp allow a pound of sugar and one-half pound of water. Boil the sugar and water for five minutes, then add the grapefruit rind and simmer gently until transparent—about thirty minutes. Drain, roll each piece in granulated sugar and dry on a tray away from the direct heat. Serve in place of after-dinner mints.

Date Bars.—Beat three egg yolks, combine with one cupful of sugar and stir until creamy. Sift one cupful of flour with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt, add one cupful of chopped walnut meats and one pound of dates, sliced and quartered; beat three egg whites stiff, add alternately with the flour mixture to the yolks and sugar. Bake in a 9x5x3 dripping pan about thirty minutes. Remove from the pan, cut into two-ounce bars, roll in powdered sugar or ice and orange jelly, decorate with stone dates and nut meats.

Lightning Cake. This is certainly most delicious cake when it is put together with a creamy filling. Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter, with one-half cupful of sugar. Add the well beaten yolks of four eggs and one teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Mix one cupful of pastry flour with two ten spoonfuls of baking powder and add this alternately with one-fourth of a cupful of milk to the first mixture. Spread in two shallow pans, cover the dough with the stiffly-beaten whites mixed with three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and sprinkle with one-fourth of a cupful of sliced almonds over all. Bake in a moderate oven for about a half hour. Spread with a custard filling, flavored with orange or lemon between the layers.

LEAVES PRISON AFTER 22 YEARS

Oklahoma Man, Held as Slayer,
Liberated by Confession of Murderer's Wife.

FINDS CHANGED WORLD

Indian, Sentenced to Life Imprisonment in 1900 for Murder, Finds Himself Wealthy as He Steps Into New World.

Muskogee, Okla.—After serving 22 years in prison for a murder he did not commit, Charner Tidwell, of Welch, Okla., has returned here, probably a millionaire. When seventeen years old he was convicted of killing James Brown, a farmer, in Adair county, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Recently a woman, Josie Gregory, made a deathbed confession, declaring that Tidwell was innocent and that her late husband, Robert Gregory, killed Brown, and that both of them, as well as relatives, swore to false evidence at Tidwell's trial in 1900. Brown was mysteriously shot to death in 1899 while riding along a highway to his farm. Tidwell was at the time employed on the farm and suspicion fastened on him, as he had quarreled with Brown shortly before the tragedy. Enough circumstantial evidence was introduced by witnesses to convict him, despite the fight of his attorneys.

Finds Changed World.

Tidwell, who is part Cherokee Indian, found a different world when released. Twenty-two years ago he went to the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. Oklahoma and Indian Territory still were the frontier. Then small villages of one-story unpainted houses and the council fires of the tribe formed the outstanding picture of youth. Now he is trying to become accustomed to skyscrapers, elevators, street cars, automobiles, and Indians dressed in the height of the white man's fashions.

Government allotments, held all these years, will now be paid to him.

NOT only does the wide variety of our Easter collection make it easy to find here just what one wants, but our low prices often enable one to choose from fashions more luxurious than were originally contemplated.

Memories

MEMORIES of lost opportunities are painful.

This is particularly true of memories of the necessities of life.

One lost in a wilderness without food and water is pursued and tortured with memories of these things. He condemns himself for any lost opportunity that might have prevented his great lack.

Money in a community is like food and water in a wilderness—it is a necessity.

Erect for yourself a sound financial structure. Do not allow this series of discourses to become a painful memory.

and lands, taken from him when convicted, will be restored. He owns one farm of 80 acres in a rich agricultural section that is now in a big paying oil belt.

Three presidents refused to pardon him when friends interceded for him. Judge A. V. Thomas, who presided at his trial, and who was working to set him free, was slain during a prison uprising at McAlester. Tidwell's mother, who devoted her life to secure her son's freedom, died. Twice she had gone to Washington to ask help from a president. It was Tidwell's only sorrow that his mother is not living to rejoice with him.

SON'S THEFTS RUIN FATHER

Man Tells How Boy Began Stealing From Store When But Six Years of Age.

Bethlehem, Pa.—Charged with stealing about $15,000 worth of goods from his father's store since he was six years old, Morris Schutman, eighteen years old, is in jail here. He is facing charges of larceny preferred by his father. The boy's stealing has made him bankrupt, the father explained.

The son began stealing when he was a child, using the money to buy candy. Later he spent all of his time in pool rooms, and stole from his father to pay his debts. Time and again he was given a chance to reform, but he always failed to keep his promise. Finally the father caused his arrest.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC CONTINUES HEAVY

The record-breaking freight movement for this time of year continues, according to the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, and records the average of previous years by a wide margin. Loading of revenue freight during the week which ended March 10 totaled 965,219 cars. This exceeded the corresponding week last year by 84,333 cars and the corresponding week in 1921 by 204,779 cars. This also was greatly in excess of the corresponding weeks in 1918, 1919 and 1920.

Due to adverse weather conditions in various parts of the country, the total for the week of March 10 was a decrease of 12,677 cars, however, compared with the week before.

If you dress well, they will call you a cake-eater.

If you don't regard your clothes, you are a mark.

If you lose your wad in Wall street, you're a bleater.

If you win out down in Wall street, you're a shark.

No matter what you do, they're goin' to slam you.

We all come in for our share of abuse.

So live to suit yourself and let them lam you—

But, to please everyone—aw, what's the use.

The line of least resistance is soonest broken.

Would Try It.

"Please, sir, father wants to know if it is true there is such a thing as a tobacco trust?"

"Yes, my lad, there is," replied the man.

"Well, father would like to be trusted with a half-pound box."

Fashion Itself.

People living in isolated places are greatly benefited by the radio weather reports. The girls now know when it is going to be hot enough to wear their furs.

"Every dollar I got," said the Self-made Man, "I worked for."

"That's nothing," said the Average Man, "every dollar I got I worked for then."

If they had a few American divorce judges in those peace conferences, they might accomplish something.

Mr.—Any installments due today?

Mrs.—No, dear, I think not.

Mr.—Any payments due on the house, the radio, the furniture, the books?

Mrs.—No.

Mr.—Then I have ten dollars we don't need. What do you say we buy a new car?

"I wish now," said the lecturer, "to tax your memory."

A wail in the audience: "Has it come to that?"

Unrequited Love.

She put her lips to his.

She gazed into his eyes.

But there was no response, alas.

Unto her loving sighs.

She said sweet words to him.

But they were thrown away.

As she was sweet and twenty-three.

He was four months and a day.

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Coughs and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister. Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears. Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia). 35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

Better than a mustard plaster

KEEPS LONELY VIGIL AT BIER

Negroes Sit Wild-Eyed All Night by Corpses of Friend Who Had Shot Himself.

Spencer, Okla.—With solemn faces and wide eyes, six negro friends of Allen A. Osborne sat beside his coffin all night, in the two-room shack near here, where Osborne shot himself. After shooting his mother-in-law, Lulu Bradley, and his wife, Edie Osborne, the negro returned to his own home, dressed himself in a white duck suit with large pearl buttons, wrote several messages, climbed into a rude pine coffin built by his own hands, placed a Bible under his head, and then shot himself.

When physicians had pronounced Osborne dead, negroes from the neighborhood brought their lances and remained through the night with their dead friend.

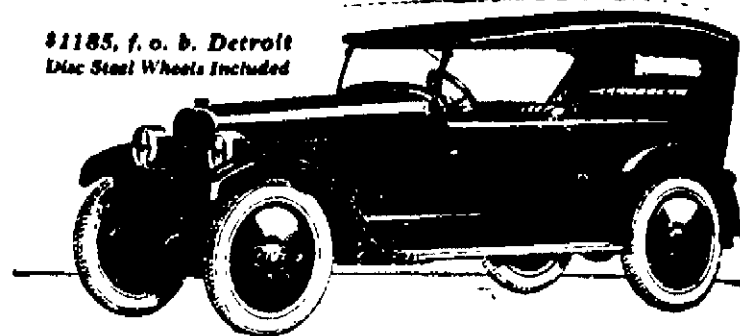

Lulu Bradley, the mother-in-law, died several hours before, according to negroes in Spencer. Edie Osborne, the wife, was brought to Oklahoma City and placed in a hospital.

Her hand was swollen badly and she was ready to collapse when released by the telegraph operator.

ST. PETER'S TEAM BITES THE DUST

For the second time this year the Peter's basketball team was able to bite the dust. This time their conquerors were the fast English Lutheran Five who triumphed by a score of 37-20. The game was one of the fastest that has been played on the St. Peter's court this season, the lead alternating throughout the game. At half time St. Peter's led by a 20-14 score. However, in the second half due to consistent work by E. Fox, Messinger and Spalt, the Lutherans gradually forced their way into the lead. Murphy was the high scorer for the losers with Wendell and Bruck close seconds.

The official baseball shall be the official National and the official American League baseball.

The umpires shall be selected by the Board of Directors and have full authority in the conduct of regularly scheduled games.

For non-appearance a team shall forfeit to opponents by the score 9-0. Each team shall be uniformed or wear some insignia that will designate their school.

Fifteen players and a manager shall be the maximum on a team's roster. Nine players contesting at one time. A player removed from game must not return to game. The umpire has authority to expel a player from game, if said player interferes with the conduct of game in some unnecessary way.

A violation of the foregoing shall be sufficient grounds for protest.

Protests must be registered with umpire previous to game, during game or immediately after game before the contestants have left the playing field.

All protests shall be submitted in writing to Board of Directors for decision, which shall be rendered at regular or special meeting. The president of the league shall be empowered to render a decision in cases of emergency and where immediate action is necessary to permit game to play, and afford regularly in its conduct.

These by-laws may be added to or subtracted from at the discretion of the Board of Directors, assembled in regular or special meeting. Finally, a copy of this code shall be sent to the directors of the various teams.

First to Explore Grand Canyon.

The first complete exploration of the Grand canyon was made in 1890 by an expedition in charge of Maj. J. W. Powell, noted geologist. He had boats especially built for the trip. It was an undertaking of extreme danger, forming, as F. S. Dellenbaugh says in his interesting "Romance of the Colorado River," "one of the distinguished feats of history," for not one of the pioneering party could have any conception of what the physical obstacles were before them when the boats set out at the canyon's head into the unknown.

Powell was a Civil war veteran, and had but one hand. He made a second and more leisurely trip in 1871-72.

Joy Turned to Sorrow.

A letter which had been brought by the postman was thinner than the bulky ones which a struggling young author usually received, and he tore it open eagerly and read: "Your recent favor stating that you inclose manuscript of story, with stamps for return if not suitable, has been received. Your contribution is accepted."

"At last!" exclaimed the young author joyfully. But his heart seemed to sink as his eyes caught the following: "P. S.—You neglected to inclose the manuscript."—Montreal Gazette.

ONE HOUR

By MARY LEARY

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

ALL during the evening Conrad had been watching her, and sometimes he felt certain that those shining gray eyes had met his with understanding; and seemed a kindred soul.

Gradually Conrad maneuvered about the room, burying himself momentarily among the cigarette-smoking men—and a few women—who were in heated and gesticulated discussion over the merit or lack of it in Lember's exhibition at Moynihan's studio. Then he shifted to the non-smoking mixed group and contributed his store of information as to the causes and mistakes leading to the inevitable divorce of the Craig Henshaws—and eventually he was with the handsome woman of the shining gray eyes and the kindred spirit.

"You appear bored," smiled Conrad, slipping into a vacant chair.

"Am I so successful in concealing my thoughts?" she queried in mock horror.

"You were probably reflecting my feelings," he assured her, with a smile.

She shrugged her shapely shoulders. "I wish there were some way one might escape."

"I believe there is quite an extensive garden to the place," informed Conrad, "and I am certain, although I have not yet investigated, that those palms to our right conceal French windows."

"Thank you, Mr. Persius," Conrad smiled and bowed low. "It is an honor to release you, Mr. Andromeda."

Together and unobserved, they slipped out into the garden. A gravel path vanished into a sylvan darkness, but farther on the cool moonlight slipped through the oleanders and bathed the pathway with silvery softness. In the pale glow of the mystic moonlight the girl seemed to Conrad as truly some druid as elusive as her gray eyes, and incorporated in the astral softness of evening attire. He felt wafted into some fairyland in which they were alone.

Now she was dancing in and out among the shrubbery, a nymph that appeared ever so often in some unexpected patch of moonlight, and then the luna rays would be reflected in those intriguing gray eyes.

Then, suddenly, from the house they had forgotten came the haunting strains of the violin, played by the sad-eyed Josef Schemack. How beautiful, entrancing and soul-filling it sounded out here, away from the house and that congested room. Here was only the wonderful music itself.

Then she who had called herself the prisoner liberated by Persius, Andromeda, stepped forth into a large pool of silver moonlight. Gracefully her sylphic form interpreted the notes of that heavenly music as with sinuous movements her flashing bare arms and shoulders whirled in noiseless dancing. Her feet skimmed over the grass, and the nebulous tulle of her evening attire floated after, clothing her in astral splendor.

It seemed to Conrad that he had inadvertently stumbled upon the privacy of some fairy spirit, and yet he seemed to be with her, to be dancing with her. He felt his limbs to be imbued with the same extramundane quality that she possessed. The earth, the trees and the plants resolved themselves into one unfathomable darkness, leaving just that one spot of moonlight in which she flitted with graceful symmetry of movement.

Then, as suddenly as it had come upon them, the music ceased, and with its last plaintive note she vanished. Conrad rubbed his eyes; it seemed so much like a dream. Presently in a smaller pool of moonlight he saw her posing lavishly. He gave chase, but always she eluded him, appearing and disappearing with uncanny suddenness. But at last he caught her.

"Who are you?" he cried dispassionately.

"Andromeda, I—I am infatuated."

A laugh tinkled in her throat; a soft hand slipped through his blond locks—and suddenly she was away from him again.

Once more he gave chase, and once more she eluded him, and when he found her she was standing, not in the glow of the moonlight this time, but in the warmer light that came through the French windows that separated the real from the unreal.

Just as he reached her, from somewhere in the house came the soft and regular tones of a striking clock. They paused attentively, counting them.

Twelve o'clock. Just as at midnight the fairies vanish, so did the astral quality slip from her, and she became the woman again.

"Come," she said, and gave him her hand.

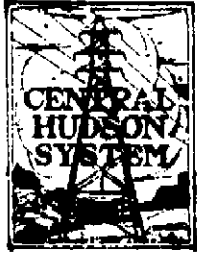

Another long-haired artist was at the square piano, and another long-haired female was preparing to sing.

"Who is that bald-headed insignificant party looking at you so intently?" asked Conrad under his breath.

"My husband," she answered quietly.

"Which one do you mean?" demanded Conrad, startled.

"The one sitting beside that flower, hawk-nosed dame in Nile green. You don't happen to know her?"

Back of the Button

You have spent your evenings this winter comfortably sheltered from icy blasts. Have you given a thought to the 300 men at Rifton, cut off from the comforts of home life, struggling with the snow and ice so that the building of the big dam might go on? For, practically every day this winter, new batches of concrete have been poured into the structure. Zero weather and deep snow have hampered, but not stopped, the steady progress of this job.

This is necessary in order to provide new and more economical power sources to supply the rapidly increasing demands and to maintain low rates, in spite of advancing costs.

Or, when winter storms are raging and you are reading your evening paper under the mellow light of an electric lamp, do you ever stop to think what it means to keep that light going? Every mile of transmission line has to be patrolled regularly, storm or no storm. Breakdowns have to be taken care of at once, irrespective of weather conditions or the hour of the day or night. Repair gangs are as liable to be called out for a job in over in the mountain section remote from habitation, as to some place near by. The service must be maintained.

There is more than a monthly bill of a few dollars back of those push buttons on your wall!

S. is as good as ever. Only those carrying four or more subjects are put on the honor roll. The number of subjects being carried is indicated by the figure after each student's name.

J. J. McCABE BUILDING TO BE UNIQUE IN DESIGN

Working of tearing out the old front of the lower floor of 294 Wall street, owned by John J. McCabe, is under way, the work being done by the Michard-Campbell Co., Inc. It is understood the work of installing a new front was held up by Mr. McCabe owing to the severe weather conditions during the winter and also by reason that there were negotiations under way to purchase the building entirely which includes the store adjoining occupied by the Mohegan Company. The new front according to plans will be of different design from any other in the city, and Mr. McCabe expects to open as he originally planned a most up-to-date fish, oyster, game and chop house, when the work is completed. It will be on the order of Keene's in New York city. The work of changing the interior of the former cafe has been completed some time ago, and a large kitchen has been constructed of brick at the rear.
